Massage parlor raided

BY RICHARD MEEK

Three women were arrested on prostitution charges Thursday night at Kim's Health Spa in Waveland by agents of the Hancock County Narcotics Task Force.

Charged with aiding and abetting prostitution were Hwan Cha Albert (Kim), 48, of Waveland; and Do Hwa Carter 43, of Baton Rouge; according to Shane Corr of the task force. Micha Yancy, 35, was charged with soliciting prostitution, Corr said.

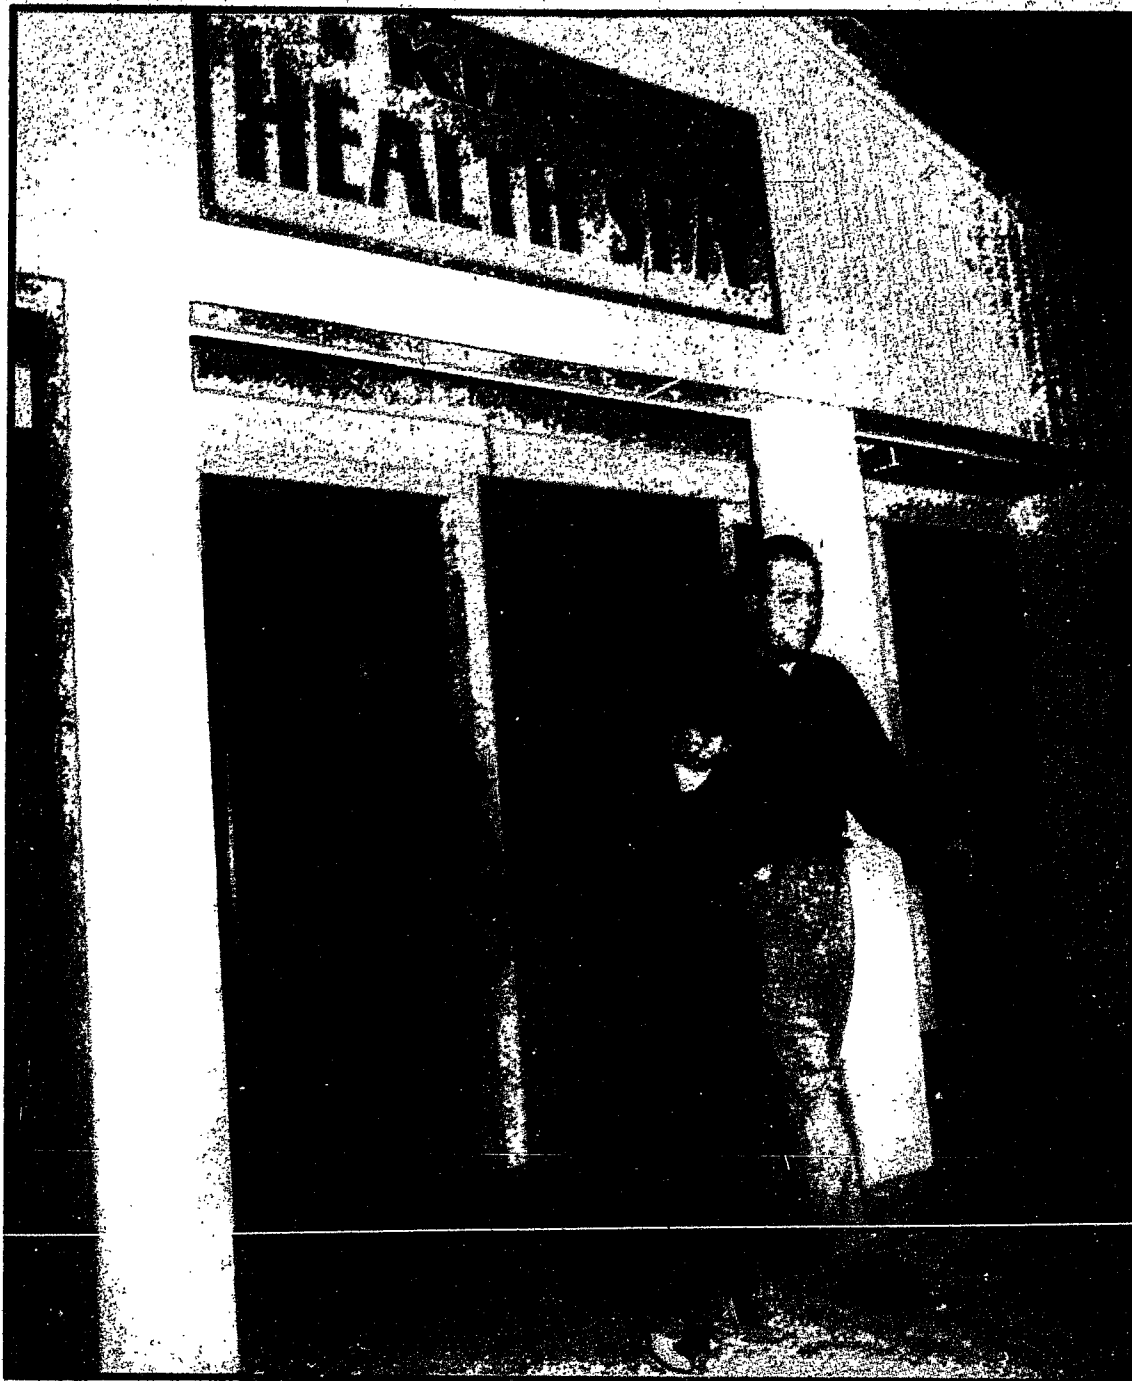

Corr said Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell had received several complaints of prostitution operating at the massage parlor. Varnell contacted the task force, and on Thursday, an undercover agent was sent in armed with surveillance equipment, according to Corr.

At approximately 10 p.m., agents raided the business and made the arrests. The massage parlor's operating license has been pulled by city officials.

Officials said customers were offered a massage at a low rate, and the illegal services offered at a higher rate. Evidence gathered included discarded condoms, and condom wrappers.

All three were released on $500 bond. A court date for Jan. 25 at 1 p.m. has been set.

The prostitution arrests were the first in Hancock County since 1994.

Finance reports filed

BY ED LEPOMA

Most of the major candidates for office in Hancock County filed financial reports by the required Jan. 10 deadline, but a few are still outstanding.

State law requires campaign finance reports be filed with the Circuit Clerk's office in each county, but leaves enforcement up to local prosecutors.

According to the Secretary of State's Office, "failure to file a report is considered a misdemeanor if it is willful and deliberate." Violators could be subject to fines not to exceed $3,000 if found guilty.

The state's financial disclosure laws also require candidates to identify parties or individuals who contribute in excess of $200 to their campaigns.

Tim Kellar, who was elected Chancery Court Clerk, filed a "Termination Report" with the Circuit Clerk's office Jan. 2, which showed he spent a total $6,471.23 on his campaign, with $3,670 contributed by individuals.

Lisa Cowand, who was elected to the Supervisor's post in District 3, listed total campaign expenses of $2,835, with $1,550 contributed by the local Republican party.

Philip E. Moran, elected District 5 Supervisor, reported campaign expenditures of

Randolph returns for challenge

BY ED LEPOMA

Some among us may still remember that little, red, one-room schoolhouse where we first learned to read and write.

Students attending Hancock County's handsome, red-brick, $11 million state-of-the-art facility off Highway 603 will probably remember their school days just as fondly.

The junior and senior high school complex that sits off Stennis/Airport Road contains over 203,000 square feet, all with central air and heat, and was designed to accommodate up to 2,000 students. It has a centralized activities building, and covered walkways connect each building.

The outside grounds feature a football stadium that will seat 4,500, in addition to softball and baseball fields.

It is one of the most modern and high-tech schools in Mississippi, and it's located in one of the fastest growing school systems in the state.

It is also a monument to efforts of Terrell "Terry" Randolph, who sometimes fought tremendous odds before the bricks and mortar took shape.

Randolph is back for another four years as Superintendent of the Hancock County School District. This will be his fourth, four-year term, and, the

County animal deaths unexplained

BY RICHARD MEEK

Hancock County is experiencing a rash of unexplained animal deaths, with the remains washing into the Bay of St. Louis and other waterways.

A passerby noticed two dead beagles lying in the Bay in the Cedar Point area on Thursday. Another was found across Beach Boulevard in a drainage ditch.

Nearby, the carcass of a deer was found floating.

Also found in county waters recently were two litters of puppies, a pig and a Doberman pinscher.

"We have no idea of who is doing this," said Thyla Rogers of the Hancock County Humane Society. "It's something wrong."

Rogers said the two beagles found in the Cedar Point area are being preserved at the Waveland Animal Shelter. Her desire to have autopsies performed on the animals, but is hoping the Bay St. Louis Police Department will pick up the

TRAVEL NOTES

TOM BURNS

The Islands Are Back

Last year's hurricane season was the worst in many, many years. While the U.S. mainland was not hit too hard, a few Caribbean islands were devastated. We all remember the television pictures of the damage.

Unfortunately, many people believe most of the Caribbean was wrecked by the hurricanes and is not fit for visitors this winter. Nothing could be further from the truth! Almost all of the Caribbean is ready and waiting for visitors as you read this.

The Caribbean is a large area, covering thousands of square miles. Most of its islands were not damaged at all by the hurricanes and many other received only minor blows. Only a few were badly damaged, despite the impressions by television and other media.

Temperatures in the 80s are virtually guaranteed throughout the Caribbean this winter. The beaches are clean and the warm sea clear and inviting. The area's hotels and restaurants are ready to meet your every need.

As Hancock County's local travel agency, we can advise you of the true conditions throughout all of the Caribbean. We will help you avoid the few areas which are not fully ready to provide all the services you expect.

For Caribbean vacations by land or sea and all your travel needs, just stop by or give us a call!

Changes ahead in school district?

BY RICHARD MEEK

Winds of change may soon be swirling through the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

Apparently in jeopardy are the nongraded program at North Bay Elementary and the position of assistant superintendent. Board President Linda Penrose questioned the effectiveness of both at a special board meeting on Wednesday night.

Although no votes were taken, the board has requested superintendent Paul Tisdale provide additional data on both issues.

Penrose had petitioned Tisdale at the beginning of the meeting for students' test scores in North Bay's Multigrade-Nongraded Program. The program is in the middle of its third year.

"I want to see what progress the students have made," Penrose said.

Board member Richard Flowers asked Penrose why the item was on the agenda.

"I don't understand," he said. "This is a special meeting for other items."

Penrose said she wanted to assess the program.

However, North Bay principal Kim Stasny explained that researchers at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park Campus are currently studying the program. She added a full report is expected by May.

Following the meeting, Tisdale said he was in favor of offering the program as an alternative for students.

"No student is placed there without permission," Tisdale said. "If a parent is not satisfied, he or she should go to (Stasny) and see about reassignment."

Tense emotions grew more terse as discussion turned to the position of assistant superintendent. Dr. Betty Jones currently holds the job, but she is retiring at the end of the school year.

"I think this is a good opportunity to eliminate the position," Penrose said. "We could look at the budget and maybe realign some things."

Tisdale objected, saying his administrative staff is already short one person. He explained that when Debbie Cox left the central office to assume the role of principal at Waveland Elementary School, her position was not filled.

Cox replaced former Waveland principal James Baldree, who was reassigned to become principal at Bay Junior High School. He is now the assistant principal at Bay High School.

"One person cannot do the job, not even two," Tisdale said. "We have added an administrator at the high school at the expense of our office staff."

"Someone will have to handle the federal funding," Flowers commented. "We must protect all of our federal programs. That means we must have someone coordinating it, and taking care of it."

"That's about a full-time job onto itself."

Flowers said the board has received no data to support eliminating the position.

"It's too premature to make a decision," he said.

Tisdale pointed out that the majority of school districts along the coast have at least one assistant superintendent, including the Hancock County School District.

Following the meeting, he said several options would be open to him if the assistant's job is eliminated. He said he "could shoulder all of the responsibility or could delegate some of it."

But Tisdale quickly repeated his earlier sentiments that "one person can't cover all of the bases and do a satisfactory job."

"You can call it whatever you want, but we need someone in that position," he said.

The meeting concluded a week of skirmishes between several school board members and Tisdale. At a meeting on Monday, the superintendent was stripped of some of his evaluation authority over personnel and other matters, and lost a struggle regarding the dissection of cats at Bay High School.

"Before (Wednesday's meeting), I have been a bit frustrated," Tisdale said. "But based on the actions of the board in executive session, I feel much more comfortable. I am not as frustrated now."

"As events unfold, it will determine if my frustration was well-founded," he added.

The board will meet again on Jan. 23 at 6 p.m. The only item scheduled on the agenda is an executive session.

Trend 2000 computer at Stennis

With the educational reform movement still strong in Mississippi, America's tax dollars are actively at work in the Teacher, Research, Education and Discovery (TREND) 2000 computer lab which opened Jan. 9 in NASA's Teacher Resource Center at the John C. Stennis Space Center (SSC).

About 20 superintendents and principals from schools around the Mississippi Gulf Coast attended the opening of TREND 2000, an educational computer facility of 21 Macintosh and IBM compatible computers connected to the Internet.

Operated by Teacher Resource Center aerospace education specialists at SSC, the lab's purpose is to facilitate the integration of technology in the curriculum by providing innovative and creative classroom strategies and is available at all area educators.

The Mississippi State Department of Education recently mandated that schools in Mississippi integrate technology in to their curriculum. Beginning in January, the department will allocate approximately $50 per student to make this happen.

Educators who attended the TREND 2000 opening said the NASA computer facility will provide an excellent training ground for teachers once the technology is implemented in their schools.

"The money our school is getting from the state department is just a little bit of money when you think of all we want to do," said Kim Stasny, principal of North Bay Elementary School in Bay St. Louis. "I can see this facility will help us provide training for our teachers and save us a lot of money. It is a valuable resource to tap into."

Participants in the TREND 2000 opening were given a hands-on demonstration of the facility. With a Teacher Resource Center representative at their aid, they were led through the many streets and avenues of the Internet to show the benefits of using it in the classroom, as well as given examples of the different levels of training provided at the NASA computer facility.

"We want to expand the resources that we have and capitalize on our young generation's interests in space," said SSC director Roy Estess. "By that association, we hope to contribute to the educational process."

Training sessions in the TREND 2000 will not only address curriculum integration but will also include other areas such as technology awareness, teacher productivity tools, telecommunication and Internet usage. Currently, the Teacher Resource Center offers a variety of other free training opportunities for educators in science, math, technology and all disciplines.

"We are proud to be able to support this program," said Department of Education and all Mississippi educators in realizing their prioritized needs through the establishment of this technology training center," said Dr. David Power, SSC education programs manager.

David Daves, principal at Pearl River County High School

in Carriere, said the school is in the process of having its computers connected to the Internet. In the past, many of his teachers have attended teacher workshops and summer training programs at the NASA Teacher Resource Center.

"I was exposed to the capabilities and benefits of the Internet through the training at the Teacher Resource Center," Daves said. "This was probably the one thing that sold me to going online."

Waste meeting reset for Jan. 24

The Hancock County Solid Waste District has rescheduled its meeting with county garbage hauler for 2 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 24.

Boudin was scheduled to meet with the District last Wednesday, Jan. 10, but cancelled because he had the flu, according to District Chairman Les Fillingame.

The District wants to meet with Boudin to discuss customer complaints before voting on whether to give him a two-year extension on the contract, which pays him more than $600,000 a year to collect garbage in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and in rural areas of Hancock County.

Boudin, the son of county Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin, owns Boudin's Waste and Recycling, Inc. He also picks up for commercial customers in the county, and most recently signed contracts to haul Picayune and Poplarville's residential waste.

No recycling pickup

Gulf Coast Recycling announced there will be no recycling pickup on Monday in observance of Martin Luther King Day.

The pickups scheduled for Monday will be picked up Tuesday.

Grim Reaper Day

Friday, Dec. 15 was declared "National Grim Reaper Day" by SADD. The Bay High SADD joined schools across the country with "Grim Reaper Day," illustrating the fact that somewhere in America someone is killed every 32 minutes in an alcohol-related incident. Pre-selected students were escorted out of class at intervals of 32 minutes by the Grim Reaper and returned wearing a black armband, a white face, and a sign that said, "Don't talk to me, I'm only a memory." These students didn't speak for the remainder of the day, but went to regular classes. December was 3 D Month (drinking, drugs, driving). The Bay High SADD celebrated the month with their Drug Free Talent Show, Lights for Life Campaign and Grim Reaper Day.

Changes ahead in school district?

BY RICHARD MEEK

Winds of change may soon be swirling through the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

Apparently in jeopardy are the nongraded program at North Bay Elementary and the position of assistant superintendent. Board President Linda Penrose questioned the effectiveness of both, at a special board meeting on Wednesday night.

Although no votes were taken, the board has requested superintendent Paul Tisdale provide additional data on both issues.

Penrose had petitioned Tisdale at the beginning of the meeting for students' test scores in North Bay's Multigrade-Nongraded Program. The program is in the middle of its third year.

"I want to see what progress the students have made," Penrose said.

Board member Richard Flowers asked Penrose why the item was on the agenda.

"I don't understand," he said. "This is a special meeting for other items."

Penrose said she wanted to assess the program.

However, North Bay principal Kim Stasny explained that researchers at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park Campus are currently studying the program. She added a full report is expected by May.

Following the meeting, Tisdale said he was in favor of offering the program as an alternative for students.

"No student is placed there

without permission," Tisdale said. "If a parent is not satisfied, he or she should go to (Stasny) and see about reassignment."

Tense emotions grew more terse as discussion turned to the position of assistant superintendent. Dr. Betty Jones currently holds the job, but she is retiring at the end of the school year.

"I think this is a good opportunity to eliminate the position," Penrose said. "We could look at the budget and maybe realign some things."

Tisdale objected, saying his administrative staff is already short one person. He explained that when Debbie Cox left the central office to assume the role of principal at Waveland Elementary School, her position was not filled.

Cox replaced former Waveland principal James Baldree, who was reassigned to become principal at Bay Junior High School. He is now the assistant principal at Bay High School.

"One person cannot do the job, not even two," Tisdale said. "We have added an administrator at the high school at the expense of our office staff."

"Someone will have to handle the federal funding," Flowers commented. "We must protect all of our federal programs. That means we must have someone coordinating it, and taking care of it."

"That's about a full-time job onto itself."

Flowers said the board has received no data to support eliminating the position.

"It's too premature to make a decision," he said.

Tisdale pointed out that the majority of school districts along the coast have at least one assistant superintendent, including the Hancock County School District.

Following the meeting, he said several options would be open to him if the assistant's job is eliminated. He said he "could shoulder all of the responsibility or could delegate some of it."

But Tisdale quickly repeated his earlier sentiments that "one person can't cover all of the bases and do a satisfactory job."

"You can call it whatever you want, but we need someone in that position," he said.

The meeting concluded a week of skirmishes between several school board members and Tisdale. At a meeting on Monday, the superintendent was stripped of some of his evaluation authority over personnel and other matters, and lost a struggle regarding the dissection of cats at Bay High School.

"Before (Wednesday's meeting), I have been a bit frustrated," Tisdale said. "But based on the actions of the board in executive session, I feel much more comfortable. I am not as frustrated now."

"As events unfold, it will determine if my frustration was well-founded," he added.

The board will meet again on Jan. 23 at 6 p.m. The only item scheduled on the agenda is an executive session.

Trend 2000 computer at Stennis

With the educational reform movement still strong in Mississippi, America's tax dollars are actively at work in the Teacher, Research, Education and Discovery (TREND) 2000 computer lab which opened Jan. 9 in NASA's Teacher Resource Center at the John C. Stennis Space Center (SSC).

About 20 superintendents and principals from schools around the Mississippi Gulf Coast attended the opening of TREND 2000, an educational computer facility of 21 Macintosh and IBM compatible computers connected to the Internet.

Operated by Teacher Resource Center aerospace education specialists at SSC, the lab's purpose is to facilitate the integration of technology in the curriculum by providing innovative and creative classroom strategies and is available at all area educators.

The Mississippi State Department of Education recently mandated that schools in Mississippi integrate technology in to their curriculum. Beginning in January, the department will allocate approximately $50 per student to make this happen.

Educators who attended the TREND 2000 opening said the NASA computer facility will provide an excellent training ground for teachers once the technology is implemented in their schools.

"The money our school is getting from the state department is just a little bit of money when you think of all we want to do," said Kim Stasny, principal of

North Bay Elementary School in Bay St. Louis. "I can see this facility will help us provide training for our teachers and save us a lot of money. It is a valuable resource to tap into."

Participants in the TREND 2000 opening were given a hands-on demonstration of the facility. With a Teacher Resource Center representative at their aid, they were led through the many streets and avenues of the Internet to show the benefits of using it in the classroom, as well as given examples of the different levels of training provided at the NASA computer facility.

"We want to expand the resources that we have and capitalize on our young generation's interests in space," said SSC director Roy Estess. "By that association, we hope to contribute to the educational process."

Training sessions in the TREND 2000 will not only address curriculum integration but will also include other areas such as technology awareness, teacher productivity tools, telecommunication and Internet usage. Currently, the Teacher Resource Center offers a variety of other free training opportunities for educators in science, math, technology and all disciplines.

"We are going to be able to support the state department of Education and all Mississippi educators in realizing their prioritized needs through the establishment of this technology training center," said Dr. David Power, SSC education programs manager.

in Carriere, said the school is in the process of having its computers connected to the Internet. In the past, many of his teachers have attended teacher workshops and summer training programs at the NASA Teacher Resource Center.

"I was exposed to the capabilities and benefits of the Internet through the training at the Teacher Resource Center," Daves said. "This was probably the one thing that sold me to going online."

Waste meeting reset for Jan. 24

The Hancock County Solid Waste District has rescheduled its meeting with county garbage hauler for 2 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 24.

Boudin was scheduled to meet with the District last Wednesday, Jan. 10, but cancelled because he had the flu, according to District Chairman Les Fillingame.

The District wants to meet with Boudin to discuss customer complaints before voting on whether to give him a two-year extension on the contract, which pays him more than $600,000 a year to collect garbage in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and in rural areas of Hancock County.

Boudin, the son of county Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin, owns Boudin's Waste and Recycling, Inc. He also picks up for commercial customers in the county, and most recently signed contracts to haul Picayune and Poplarville's residential waste.

No recycling pickup

Gulf Coast Recycling announced there will be no recycling pickup on Monday in observance of Martin Luther King Day.

The pickups scheduled for Monday will be picked up Tuesday.

Grim Reaper Day

Friday, Dec. 15 was declared "National Grim Reaper Day" by SADD. The Bay High SADD joined schools across the country with "Grim Reaper Day," illustrating the fact that somewhere in America someone is killed every 32 minutes in an alcohol-related incident. Pre-selected students were escorted out of class at intervals of 32 minutes by the Grim Reaper and returned wearing a black armband, a white face, and a sign that said, "Don't talk to me, I'm only a memory." These students didn't speak for the remainder of the day, but went to regular classes. December was 3 D Month (drinking, drugs, driving). The Bay High SADD celebrated the month with their Drug Free Talent Show, Lights for Life Campaign and Grim Reaper Day.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I am sure there should be once again a large group from Hancock County and the Mississippi Coast watching the Dallas-Green Bay conference title game today.

Brett Favre will sure have a lot of us pulling for him and for the Packers today.

The fold following Brett and the Packers increases every day in the area.

P.S. Read the letter from an Echo Wisconsin reader in the Letters to the Editor column on this page.

On another subject of interest, in the area is another fund raiser for the Bentz-Favre Team 1 in the St. Paul's Carnival Association.

On Friday night, Jan. 19, there will be a seafood dinner and karaoke night with entertainment by Diane Desporte School of Dance. The event will be held in St. Paul's Gym with the dinner from 6-8 p.m..

Most of you know the Favre member of the team is Brett's mother, Bonita, and she and Leonard Bentz hope to be the reigning royalty for the annual St. Paul Carnival Association's Mardi Gras function.

Sounds like this will be a real fun fund raiser.

Whether we like it or not, there is nothing we can do about the weather.

Yet, it seems still to be one of the most popular subjects in the area.

Even with the ups and downs in temperatures, we still have it good compared to other parts of the country.

Friday afternoon I was talking to one of my friends in the mountains of Kentucky, and he was telling me about a 24-inch snowfall topped with a few more inches. He said everything is now ice and slush.

I am looking forward to good old summer time.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI SENATE

By State Senator
Scottie Cuevas

Shorter legislative session will save time and money

Submitted by State Senator
Scottie R. Cuevas

It's almost official — the 1996 Legislative Session will be shortened to put the state's business on a faster track and save the taxpayers money. However, by Friday afternoon the Senate and House were headed for conference to work out the details.

The differences? The Senate wants the session length at 97 days, while the House has proposed 104. According to the state constitution, the legislative session right after a new governor is elected can be no longer than 125 days, with the other regular sessions during the term limited to 90 days.

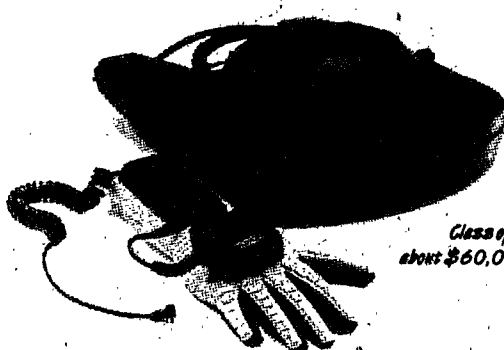

Since the Senate version differs from the House, we'll have to convene a conference committee to work out a compromise.

ise to be voted on again by both chambers. Only after the compromise's approval will we have a schedule to get bills drafted, introduced, and examined by committees.

Jan. 19 is our first deadline to make requests for drafting general bills and constitutional amendments. Traditionally, senators have worked through 25 other deadlines to final passage before the session ends. Friday, we also voted to open conference committee meetings to the public.

Deadline Changed
The Senate and House approved a change to re-set the "Super Tuesday" election qualifying deadline from March 1 to Friday, Jan. 26. "Super Tuesday" is March 12, when Mississippians will vote in party primaries.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI HOUSE

By Representative
J.P. Compretta

A Weekly Summary

Submitted by Representative
J. P. Compretta

Business has started to pick up in the Mississippi House of Representatives following the appointment of committees, gubernatorial inauguration, and adoption of a resolution to trim the 1996 legislation session in a move to expedite handling of bills and save taxpayers' money.

The first session of a new legislative term is usually 125 days as authorized by the State Constitution, while remaining sessions are each limited to 90 days unless extended. This year's session would be shortened to 97 days, rather than the customary 125 days, under a legislative timetable approved during the past week by the House. An alternative 90-day proposal was pending in the Senate as the weekend approached. Differences between the two chambers would have to be resolved before the resolution takes effect.

The resolution, as adopted by the House, called for the session to end by Easter Sunday, April 7, although the official adjournment would be set for a week later, April 14. The additional seven days would give legislators an opportunity to return — if necessary — to consider any late-arriving gubernatorial vetoes that might come down in the closing days of the session.

It also would help avoid problems that have arisen on occasion in past sessions involving what's commonly known as the "five-day rule." This is an old constitutional provision that prohibits passage of appropriations or revenue bills in the last five days. It has not been unusual in the past for a session to be extended for a few days, at least on paper, to comply with the five-day restriction.

The initial session of a new four-year term is normally longer than the other three sessions to allow more time for organizational chores, introduction of bills, and appointment of committees, and to provide for a smoother transition between gubernatorial administrations.

Since Gov. Kirk Fordice is the state's first chief executive to succeed himself in modern times, it was felt the longer session would not be required in 1996. The shortened session, which has the governor's support, is expected to save more than $380,000 in legislative costs.

A joint House-Senate session was held Jan. 9 for the inauguration. The governor planned to go before another joint session Tuesday, Jan. 16, to present his legislative program for 1996. In his inaugural remarks, he talked about progress being made by the state and challenges that lie ahead as we near the start of a new century and a new millennium.

At one point, the governor referred to racial troubles of the 1960s, saying: "The 1960s are over — this is 1996 — we want to be judged by our deeds here and now and not by what happened then and there. The only race we're concerned with is the race for more jobs, better schools, safe neighborhoods and lower taxes."

Other highlights of the past week included a sharp increase in committee work, the introduction of hundreds of bills and resolutions, and passage of a bill designating Jan. 26 as the qualifying deadline for candidates to enter this year's congressional primaries. It was the first measure to clear both chambers.

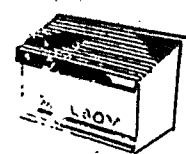

The proposal, recommended by the Apportionment and Elections Committee, was aimed at clearing up some questions that arose following approval of new qualifying deadlines in 1994 for various offices. Under the 1994 act, this year's qualifying deadline would have fallen on March 1 or only 12 days before the "Super Tuesday" presidential preference primary and congressional primaries, causing problems in making ballots available to absentee voters. The bill provides about 45 days between the qualifying cutoff and the primaries this year, and sets the qualifying deadline at 60 days before the presidential preference primaries in future election years.

Several committees held organizational meetings, adopting committee rules and naming subcommittees to study a growing stack of bills awaiting consideration. More than 600 bills and resolutions had been introduced in the House by the end of the week with the number continuing to increase daily.

Two members of the state's congressional delegation were among recent visitors to the House. Congressman Mike Parker gave House members a brief update on federal budget negotiations, stressing that what happens in Mississippi will have a direct bearing on Mississippi. Earlier, Congressman G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery also dropped by to pay his regards.

Montgomery served as a member of the Mississippi Legislature before his election to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1966. He has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election when his present term expires.

A list of bills introduced in the House can be found at the City-County Library on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis. I can be contacted during the Legislative Session in Jackson at the following telephone number (601) 359-3326, and the mailing address is P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215-1018. ## LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Parent feels three members to convention absurd

Dear Editor:
How many school board members does it take to screw in a light bulb? Better yet, how many school board members does it take to go to a convention?

The school board answered that question — three: one to hold the pencil, one to hold the paper and one to listen — to a tune of $4,500.

Now come on, don't you think $4,500 can be put to a better use than sending three people to an all-expense-paid trip to Orlando on our tax money?

I quote from one of our school board members, "We should put aside personal agendas and do what is in the best interest of the students. That is to take care of the children of this school district."

Don't you think that $4,500 can be used a little better? How about books, learning materials, field trips, pencils and paper to name a few?

If we continue to have the big 3-2 vote from now until the end of Tisdale, I believe we might as well have our tax money pay for everyone to go on a vacation to Orlando.

Student appeals for multi-age classes

Dear Editor,
My name is Margaret Reynolds, and I am 7 years old. The school I go to is North Bay Elementary.

I am in first grade in a multi-age classroom.

It is fun because I learn a lot more because there are second and third graders in my class. They share what they are learning with me.

I want to keep the multiage classrooms because they are good for children.

Diamondhead residents wants to know who was surveyed by committee on new club

To the Editor:
According to The Sea Coast Echo of Sunday, Jan. 7, a committee has finished surveying club members for the new Diamondhead Country Club.

Who did they survey? I have been a resident of Diamondhead for 11 years and never heard a thing about the survey. Also, I have talked to several other members who know nothing of it either.

I guess the members consist of a few friends of the committee. I wonder how many non-resident property owners were contacted.

From the sound of the article, the committee is planning to build another money-losing monstrosity. It appears they intend to make it capable of handling large groups for maybe five or six functions a year.

Mr. Montjoy states that it will be able to accommodate 500 people and will be the only facility in Hancock County able to handle this many people. Are we building this for Diamondhead or Hancock County residents?

We can rest assured that with their grandiose plans, it will cost probably double the amount of the available funds from the insurance on the old country club, and the property owners will have to ante-up the balance.

This facility should be designed to accommodate Diamondhead residents only, as we should not be in the business of providing facilities for outsiders.

Diamondhead should not be in business. The only ones who profit from outside people, is the businesses in Diamondhead who contribute not one thin dime to our association's expenses.

The businesses are here to make a profit and not out of the goodness of their hearts.

A prudent business man would design this for maybe 15 to 20 years with provisions to add on if and when it becomes necessary to do so. I submit that a great many of the present residents will not even be alive in 20 years.

Remember, these are the same people who took our dues from $330 per annum to this year's assessment to a total of $472.25 in five short years.

This is a raise of 44 percent. Did your income go up that much? I know they will argue that is not true. Check it out. Assessment = $319.00, Security = $63.25, Fire Department (previously included in your assessment) $90 per year.

Fellow Diamondhead residents, hold on to your wallets, here we go again.

Wisconsin resident says Echo subscription, Brett, great gifts

To the Editor:
Thanks to my in-laws, Paul and Caro Moore, for the best Christmas present ever — a subscription to The Sea Coast Echo. I know what you are thinking. Why would anyone from Neshkoro, (Nesh Kor O) Wisconsin, land of the Green Bay Packers, want with a subscription to The Sea Coast Echo? Well, let me make a long story short.

My husband, Jeff Moore, is a native of Tulsa, Okla. (You know, the state that once claimed Barry Switzer as the best college coach in America!), and I was born and raised in Neshkoro, Wis.

Jeff moved to Neshkoro in 1979 to work for my father building wooden sailboats.

We fell in love and were married in 1984. (Mind you, Brett Favre was still in high school) and he talked me into a honeymoon in New Orleans for the 1984 Worlds Fair. On our way down, we traveled through Mississippi and enjoyed our stay so much that we decided to return in 1994 for our second honeymoon and 10th anniversary.

We happened upon a beautiful KOA campground in Bay St. Louis and fell in love with the area. We made our plans to retire to Hancock County.

Well, my in-laws (yes, I like them a lot!) gave us the subscription to The Sea Coast Echo for Christmas so we could check out the cost of living, local news, etc.

Needless to say, my jaw dropped when I saw the name Favre at every ribbon cutting and civic event.

Then, low and behold, I found Kiln, Mississippi, home of Brett Favre, only 13 miles away from Bay St. Louis. We have moved our retirement plans up!

I just have one thing to say to Richard Meek, your news editor. How in the heck could you pick the 49ers over the Pack? We cheeseheads know how to play football.

Dallas will be tougher, but I still pick Green Bay! You won't and can't imagine the enthusiasm of a team and the fans till you come to Wisconsin and support the Pack. Whether eight years old or 80, we all back the Pack!

So, thank you for sending us Favre — you need to realize that now he is ours, no longer yours. He will go down in history as a Packer, and we are proud! So cheer for Brett, Reggie, Brooks, Chmura and, yes, even Keith Jackson. We are America's team!

Sincerely,
Joy Moore
Neshkoro, Wis.
P.S. I pick Packers 21, Cowgirls (oops, I mean Cowboys) 20!

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

In the waning days of 1995, Lorie McGuire claimed she did not know she was pregnant. After her "surprising" pregnancy had run its course, she stated further that she thought her child was stillborn.

As a matter of record, the child died of carbon monoxide poisoning shortly after birth, at which point McGuire attempted to cremate the body in a wood-burning stove.

The law concluded the tragic farce by convicting McGuire of voluntary manslaughter and sentencing her to ten years in prison. Her totally anguished picture, transmitted in an AP photo, tells her story of fright, confusion and death.

Once more, the Jan. 22, 1973 abortion law was exposed as a diabolical piece of sophistry which could not possibly be God-inspired, and therefore must be a work of the devil. Lorie McGuire had become just another criminal/victim.

Anything goes during the first six months of the fetus, then, magically, everything changes after that. Further, there is open season on any fetus in the womb, but, if one survives the abortion attempt, it cannot be killed legally.

This law has to be straight from hell, creating razor-thin distinctions between inside/outside womb deadly force and between the ambivalent meanings of the number of days immediately before and immediately after six months of fetal life.

Considering what our allegedly enlightened legislators and congresspersons have done with the federal budget and other major issues, we understand the zany process by which federal judges are chosen and how the latter reflect such insanity.

Grooming criminals/victims

Worse, the evils pursuant upon the abortion law are legion and equally death-dealing. For instance, it is quite arguable that the abortion atmosphere created the favorable cocoon where Lorie McGuire could feel normal while acting insanely.

Not coincidentally, she was about three years old when the abortion law went into effect. Thus, she grew up when the violent culture in which we live was just taking off into ever spiraling intensity and insanity.

Many contributing factors have brought our violent culture to where it is now: our country's love affair with guns and melodramatic gunplay and death in movies and literature, and our insatiable appetite for the same.

Beyond a doubt, the most radical of all factors feeding our violent culture is the dehumanization of our parents, especially our mothers, through trivialization of the fetus. If mother's instincts will not protect human life, who will?

Lorie McGuire is but another of myriad mothers who place the life and limb of a fetus after "my right to do what I want with my body," and after the hell-bent drive to get out from under the heel of male chauvinists who make the rules.

Put this in context with the abortion ruling of 1973, and we have a deadly recipe which victimizes children by stirring them into a culture of violence and pouring them out with immoral views and a scary, lethal accommodation to violence.

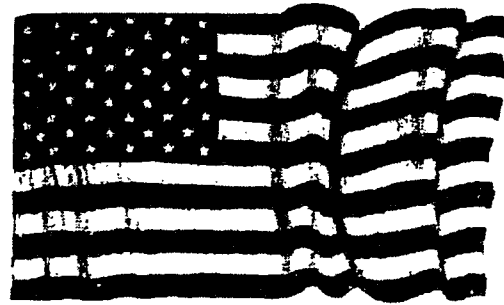

Can we afford to wonder about the callous, unfeeling, calculating violence of your youngest citizens when we give them only godless, life-defying laws and examples to follow?

The only perfect person who ever lived said: "I came that they might have life, and have it to the full" (Jn. 10:10).

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

If you were to ask me my "favorite best" food of this just-past Christmas, I'd be very hard-pressed to give an answer! That's because it was all so delicious and memorable.

How could it be otherwise? I spent the holidays in Mandeville, La., with my sons and daughters-in-law, Bill and Roi McGuire and Jack and Sue McGuire and their families.

Jack and Sue's eldest, Shannon, and his wife, Susan, were home from his Navy post in Hawaii for a holiday visit with his parents, and with her mother, Gerrie Gough. Completing their family circle were sons Barrett, David and Holland.

Driving down from South Carolina to join Bill and Roi were their son Bill and his fiancée, Beth Carpenter. They'll marry in August. Son, Brian, director of student media at Virginia Tech (yes, the team which won the Sugar Bowl) in Blacksburg, Va., was in Columbia, S.C. with his fiancée, Molly Thacker, as guests of her parents this past Christmas. They'll marry in early April. We met Molly a year ago when she and Brian were with us in Mandeville at Christmas. So, you see, it's been an eventful year for us all!

Back to the food: Was it Roi's fudge pie? Or the special spinach or cranberry marmalade? Or was it Sue's jelly roll with poinsettia leaves of candy? Or the great grits and grillades and biscuits at the family brunch? Sue's scrambled egg casserole? Or — oh, it's impossible to list all the special dishes and to choose from among them!

Brunch has long been one of my favorite meals, and surely one of the best ever, to me, as the family brunch which Sue and Jack gave the day before Christmas Eve. Family members and close friends talked and relaxed for hours, feasting upon baked ham, grits and grillades and biscuits and rolls and on Sue's special scrambled egg casserole. And once you try that casserole, you'll count on it time and again.

For, you see, you may prepare it even a couple of days ahead of time, and refrigerate it before baking — and it will taste freshly-scrambled! Here's:

SUE'S EGG SCRAMBLE CASSEROLE

2 Tbsp. melted butter or margarine

2 Tbsp. all-purpose flour
2 cups whole ilk
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 cup grated cheese (yellow)
1 cup chopped Canadian Bacon or ham
1/4 cup chopped green onion
3 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 dozen eggs, beaten * See note
1 (4 oz.) can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1/2 cups buttered bread crumbs
1/8 tsp. paprika

* Note: Sue found that there's less "runny" tendency if she increases eggs to 1 1/2 dozen, or even 2 dozen (or 1 1/2 times quantity called for). And, for her cream sauce, she increases the flour to 5 tablespoons, the butter to 5 tablespoons, and the milk to 5 cups. See what suits you best.

Combine butter and flour, blending until smooth, and cook over low heat until bubbly. Gradually stir in milk and cheese, cook until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Set aside.

Saute bacon or ham and onion in 3 tbsp. butter until onion is soft. Add eggs, cook until set, stirring occasionally to scramble. Fold in mushrooms and cheese sauce. Spoon mixture into lightly greased 12x7x2 baking dish. Top with crumbs and sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. (8 to 10 servings).

maries for presidential candidates, as well as for U.S. Senator and Representative.

A few years ago, the Legislature set March 1 as the qualifying deadline for all elections with no thought to the "Super Tuesday" calendar.

Without the deadline change, we'd be in a pretty tight squeeze for candidates to qualify, ballots to be printed, absentee ballots to be voted, and the election to come off smoothly.

Both chambers have approved the new qualifying deadline, and we've been assured of speedy approval from the Governor's Office and the U.S. Justice Department.

In other business, we had some distinguished visitors in the Senate this week. On Monday, we commended Commander Mary Ann McCullen, who commands the U.S. Naval Station at Pascagoula. She is an Amory native who has risen through the ranks to this important post.

Also, U.S. Congressman

Roger Wicker of Tupelo — a former state senator — was welcomed and spoke briefly about his activities in Washington.

Getting Organized

The Senate's new Management Committee has been hard at work on allocating office space, designating staff to help us, and devising schedules from which we can begin to work in committees. There's a lot of up-front work required before we actually can get down to voting on bills, but that is likely to begin full tilt next week.

Despite the cold weather, the Governor's inauguration was quite a colorful event on Tuesday, complete with patriotic bunting, military bands and a 17-gun salute. The Senate's president, Lt. Gov. Musgrove, presided over the ceremonies for which Supreme Court Chief Justice Dan Lee administered the oath of office.

Free glaucoma screening

Glaucoma is a disease which destroys a person's visual field, or side vision. Only in its rarer forms does it cause pain; but if not recognized or treated, it ends in total blindness.

The two most common types of glaucoma are:

—Open angle, which is a slow-moving form affecting two percent of the population over 40; and —Acute, which is most commonly seen in farsighted or hyperopic people. It can cause a swift rise of pressure in the eye, resulting in a brow headache, foggy filminess of vision, slowing of the heart rate and nausea.

Hancock Medical Center and Koskan Eye Clinic will host a free glaucoma screening Friday, Jan. 26 from 9 a.m.-noon at the hospital. From 1:30 p.m.-4 p.m. free screenings will be offered at St. Thomas Episcopal Church meeting room, 5303 Diamondhead Circle, Diamondhead.

Glaucoma symptoms are marked by increased pressures inside the eye, caused by clogging in the eye's drainage system. Other indicators include destruction of the optic nerve and loss of peripheral vision.

A person with only one of the symptoms is considered a glaucoma suspect and should be carefully monitored at regular intervals by a physician, said

Arbor Day celebration

Arbor Day will be celebrated Feb. 9 with a tree give-away and sale at the Hancock County Courthouse from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The trees are Baldcypress, Green Ash, Sycamore, Nuttall Oak, White Oak and Chestnut Oak.

In addition, Magnolia and White Dogwoods will be sold for $2 each, limit three per household. Information on planting and care of the seedlings will be provided by the Mississippi Forestry Commission and Soil and Water Conservation District.

Other Arbor Day ceremonies will take place in advance of Mississippi's Tree Planting Week when Smokey Bear visits each of the area schools.

Representatives from the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Mississippi Forestry Commission will plant trees with the students and explain the importance of trees as a renewable resource.

Mississippi's 22nd annual Tree Planting Week will be Feb. 9-15, according to Harold Prather of Meadville, again serving as chairman of the State Tree Planting Week Committee.

Tree Planting Week was established in 1975 with the late L. L. "Moon" Mullins of Starkville, avid tree farmer and businessman, as its founder. The special week to commemorate trees and what they provide for Mississippi and its people, is sponsored statewide by the Mississippi Association of Conservation Districts.

Since its inception more than two decades ago nearly 20 million free trees have been given to homeowners, school children and others participating in Tree Planting Week. Gov. Kirk Fordice has been requested to officially proclaim the special week to kick off the annual event.

State Forester Jim Sledge says Tree Planting Week has played a significant role in establishing Mississippi as the second best state in the nation for annual reforestation achievement. Only Georgia is ahead of Mississippi in this regard.

Sledge adds that the most recent forest survey shows that Mississippi now has 18.7 million acres of forested land (62 percent of our land area.)

That's about two million more acres than it had 60 years ago, according to records kept by the State Forestry Commission. Forest products are Hancock County's number one crop, with 65 percent of the total acreage being forest land.

Korean War veterans convention site set

St. Louis, Mo., has been selected for the 12th annual National Reunion of the Korean War Veterans Association Inc. (KWVA) a national organization of over 15,000 armed forces veterans who served during the Korean War.

Themed "St. Louis '96," the five-day gathering is scheduled for July 23-27 beginning with registration on Tuesday, July 23, and ending with ceremonies marking the 43rd anniversary of the Korean War Armistice (July 27, 1953).

Between 1,500 and 2,000 KWVA members are expected to attend; advance registrations in Sept. 95 had already reached 500, with delegations planned for every state. Official headquarters will be the St. Louis Adams Mark Hotel, adjacent to the famous "Gateway to the West" Arch Monument. Additional hotel space has been reserved at six other St. Louis area first class hotels.

In addition to election of national officers, the program will include a variety of activities, including live musical entertainment, a banquet, and tours of St. Louis' numerous museums, parks and other attractions, including the internationally famous Missouri Botanical Gardens ("Shaw's Garden"). The entire program was chosen to provide members and their spouses with a relaxing, enjoyable visit to one of America's premier tourist cities.

"St. Louis '96" is the culmination of months of planning and preparation by representatives of four Missouri and nine Illinois KWVA chapters, representing the area between Chicago and Kansas City.

Additional information regarding the reunion is available by contacting KWVA, 117 Mark Drive, Fairview Heights, IL 62208, or calling 1-800-603-6555.

The Korean War Veterans Association Inc. is a specialized international organization comprised of over 15,000 men and women who served in the armed forces during the Korean War (June 1950-Jan. 1955) or in Korea between 1946 and today.

Randolph

fifth time he's served in the county's top education position. And, he's dreaming bigger dreams.

A native of Hancock County and a graduate of Bay Senior High, Randolph, was elected as a Democrat to his first term as head of Hancock County Schools in 1976. He had never run for public office before, but in the race he defeated six opponents, including the incumbent and two former superintendents of education.

Randolph served until 1980, and lost his re-election bid by two votes. Only two years later, the man who defeated him was forced to resign after pleading guilty to a felony charge.

Voters again selected Randolph to fill the unexpired term. He was then re-elected to a second four year term in 1983 and to a third in 1987.

Although he suffered a heart attack in 1989, and had open heart surgery in 1990, Randolph, entered the race for a fifth term in 1991. This time, he was narrowly defeated by Myrna Bourgeois.

In 1995, Randolph, now 59, entered the race as a Republican. He campaigned county-wide while Bourgeois faced, and eventually lost to Donald E. Hillman in the Aug. 8 Democratic primary.

Hillman, a computer software executive who had a master's degree in education administration, was seen as a tough foe for Randolph to face in the Nov. 9 runoff election.

The race was not officially decided until absentee votes were counted. In the unofficial tally, Randolph led by 37 votes, 3,230 to 3,193 for Hillman.

After absentee ballots were counted, Randolph was declared the victor by a 42-vote margin, 3,246 to 3,204.

Why would anyone want the job a fourth or fifth time? The money's not bad, between $60,000 and $65,000 a year, but Randolph assures you, he's not in it for the money or the prestige.

"It's the challenge. I want to be a part of it," said Randolph. "Education is an ever-changing process, and the computer age is bringing rapid change. I want to be part of that. This is an exciting time to be in education."

Randolph points out that the new consolidated school in Kiln is nearing capacity. Just four years ago, when he left office, Randolph said there were 18 vacant classrooms. There are none now.

We've come a long way," said Randolph. "Fifteen years ago, the high school was operating out of 20 mobile trailers on campus, and we had no excess monies," he recalls.

Today, we're in pretty good shape financially, but Hancock County is only one of two school districts in the state classified as "impact" districts," said Randolph. "More industry and more casinos are going to impact all our schools, and we need to plan for that now. It's almost too late to begin any new buildings to accompany the growth that is expected."

Randolph has other plans too.

"One of my first priorities will be to conduct a needs assessment," said Randolph. "We need to get our community involved.

that includes the School Board, business leaders and parents. I want to make an audit of the wants and needs of this community as it pertains to education."

Randolph said he already sees a need for the School District to provide a variety of services that are still lacking. The District now provides night instructions for people interested in getting their high-school equivalency (GED), but Randolph said more can be done.

"We need to offer a variety of courses for our adults, and our senior citizens. Even students would be interested in some evening courses, if they were offered," said Randolph.

He also plans to ask for expanded drug testing, enforcement, and education.

Currently bus drivers and some athletes are randomly tested for drugs, but Randolph said he will seek random testing of school personnel and students.

Randolph also wants to introduce more of the arts in District schools, and he said he plans to foster closer ties with Paul Tisdale, who heads up the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

In his last term, highschool students in the two school districts were allowed to take classes at Bay High or Hancock High if those courses weren't offered at both schools.

That idea was scrapped by Bourgeois, but Randolph said, "I still think it's a good idea, if and when we have the space."

He said he wants to work with Tisdale, "to look for a way we might save money, work together, and, at the same time, help our students."

Randolph said he wants to reinforce support from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors too.

"I hope they will work with us when it comes to improving roads in the rural areas where school buses travel daily, and with some on-site improvements, such as parking lots," he said.

He hasn't forgotten the school's 350 employees either.

"There was a time when salaries were on par with Harrison and other counties, but we have slipped a bit," he said. "Harrison has been able to do it with gambling revenue."

He said he wants to find a way to increase salaries of teachers and other school personnel "as soon as possible."

Randolph is also well aware of the current controversy surrounding Section 16 land the School District owns in the Standard Community.

The District now leases 41 acres to the county for a rubbish site, and the county's Solid Waste District wants to continue leasing that property, and purchase an adjacent 91 acres for a country landfill.

Bourgeois, the defeated Superintendent, has contended that rumors about the rubbish site and what is planned at the landfill, contributed to her downfall.

Randolph said he has attended the information forum on the landfill in December, and would advise the School board "to make a decision based, first, on what is in the best interest of the children of Hancock County."

He's not unfamiliar with Section 16 land. While he was out of office from 1980 to 1982, Randolph served as consultant on Section 16 land in for school districts in Hancock, Jackson and other counties.

When Randolph first took office in 1976, the 11,000 acres in Hancock County netted a total of $400 per year. Those same leases now yield over $100,000 per year.

Randolph bucked county politicians' and unhappy leaseholders' to reacquire the property and renegotiate leases. As a result, it is estimated the school socked away about $1.5 million over the last 10 years, part of which was used to build the new Hancock High School, and to convince voters to approve a $6.6 million bond issue to build the new school. Voters had rejected three previous requests.

Some of Randolph's innovative suggestions were also incorporated into the Sixteenth Section Land reform Act, passed by the Mississippi Legislature in 1978.

Past history shows that Randolph doesn't exactly run away from a fight, although now he relies on diplomacy, rather than his fists.

In highschool, he won three state boxing titles as a 150-pound welterweight, and got a boxing scholarship to Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

He transferred to the University of Southern Mississippi,

"We feel a crime has been committed," she said, and added that evidence indicated the dogs may have been poisoned.

However, Bay Police Chief Frank McNeil said the department will not pay for the autopsies. He said a local veterinarian had been contacted, and the department was told that since the dogs were submerged for an extended period of time, examination of the remains would be inconclusive.

McNeil said possible crimes include cruelty to animals and littering.

Rogers said a $500 is being offered to anyone with information that leads to the arrest and conviction of individuals in this case. Those with information should contact the Humane Society at 467-7686 or the Animal Shelter at 467-0230.

PMS topic of seminar

More than 40 percent of women suffer from symptoms of pre-menstrual syndrome (PMS). While some of these symptoms are merely bothersome, up to 10 percent of the female population complain that problems relating to PMS have a significant impact on their work and lifestyles.

Obstetrician/gynecologist Keith Goodfellow, MD, will discuss the many options available to women suffering from this disease in a free community education seminar sponsored by Hancock Medical Center Tuesday, Jan. 23 at 7 p.m. at the City-County Library on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis.

Some of the symptoms of PMS include:

— Sad, tearful or irritable

Taylor

"I've had a lot of folks ask me when I was going to have a Kiln town meeting," said Taylor. "I'm anxious to hear from them and listen to their ideas."

Rep. Taylor will host the meeting at the Kiln VFW on Tuesday, Jan. 16. Taylor will discuss issues important to Kiln residents and answer any questions they may have from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

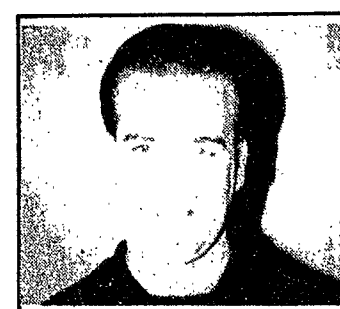

Having already held more than a dozen town meetings in South Mississippi last year, Taylor said the gatherings have been very successful and he is planning more like them in other communities throughout the district.

"I'm coming to town to listen. It's as simple as that," said Taylor. "I really want to know what the residents are thinking about so I can best represent them in Washington."

Financial Focus

Lincoln would probably avoid penny stocks

People who try to get something for nothing often end up with nothing.

This sometimes happens with people who invest in penny stocks.

According to the Securities and Exchange Commission, a penny stock is one that sells for $5 a share or less and is not traded on a major exchange or the NASDAQ over-the-counter market.

Many high-quality companies — for example, Wal-Mart and Coca-Cola — never sold as penny stocks. On the contrary, penny stocks may be offered by promoters who want to look for a gold mine, develop a pet project or even start up a legitimate business. If that sounds like someone wants to use your money to take their risk, then you already understand penny stocks.

Most major securities firms discourage their customers from investing in penny stocks. Some prohibit the recommendation of any penny stock not followed and rated by their firm's analysts. Others simply don't pay their investment representatives for any order of a stock selling for less than $5 a share.

Why do many investment firms avoid penny stocks? According to the North American Securities Administrators Association, those who speculate in penny stocks lose money 70 percent of the time. That's the good news. When fraud is involved, the odds of a loss rise to 90 percent.

Generally, limited information is available on penny stocks. Stocks listed on the New York and American stock exchanges, as well as the NASDAQ over-the-counter market, must meet certain financial standards regarding pre-tax income, assets, distribution of common stock, and more. Penny stocks have few, if any, of these requirements. Most information on penny stocks comes directly from the issuing company, and this information is seldom verified by financial analysts.

In spite of the limited information that is provided and the odds against making money, investors continue to buy penny stocks. If you are one of these people, be aware of the risks of your investment. Penny stocks are appropriate only for money that you can afford to lose. They are not a good way to invest for long-term needs like retirement.

If you're going to buy penny stocks, it's vital to do your homework. Look for companies with new or innovative products that have strong potential. Stay away from start-up companies in highly technical fields that you know nothing about.

Call the company and ask direct questions. Ask for printed information such as a recent prospectus or annual report. Expect to spend the equivalent of one or two working days investigating any penny stock that you plan to buy.

Finally, diversify. This is good advice with any investment, and it makes especially good sense when buying low-priced stocks of small companies that often go bankrupt.

Take a good look at a penny. See the profile of honest Abe Lincoln? Remember, this is not a logo for penny stocks.

MESC lowers employer tax for 1996

Mississippi's robust economy over the last four years spells tax relief for the state's employers in 1996.

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission will drop its minimum unemployment insurance tax rate to 0.4 percent from the 1995 rate of 1.1 percent, a decrease of 64 percent. This is the lowest employer tax rate since 1991. MESC analysts project that the lower rate will save employers some $48 million this year.

Mississippi Governor Kirk Fordice said in response to the announcement, "This is an outstanding example of the type of tax relief that all Mississippi employers need. It allows Mississippi employers to create jobs for other Mississippians. This news, coupled with an estimated annual unemployment rate of 5.9 percent for 1995 — the lowest in 16 years — indicates that Mississippi's economy is stronger than ever."

Substantial increases in employment and wages are making the rate reduction possible. Taxable wages — the first $7,000 earned by each employee — have increased by approximately 5.5 percent over the last four fiscal years, according to MESC data. The largest increases in taxable wages occurred in 1994 and 1995.

Meanwhile, total wages increased by 25 percent over the four-year period, up from $16 billion in 1991 to $20.1 billion in 1994. Similarly, average monthly private sector employment grew by 16.2 percent between 1991 and the first six months of 1995.

"This is an excellent four-year record," said Tom Lord, executive director of MESC. "In spite of the inevitable losses in textiles and apparel production, our manufacturing sector is holding up. The average weekly wage remains above $400, the highest in the state's history. We are gaining more industries that require higher-skilled workers, so I anticipate that wages will remain at this level and above," he said.

Contract construction work is also at record highs. Since June 1995, construction employment has been above 50,000 each month.

Jobs in services have grown the fastest over the last several years. "This growth is by no means limited to fast food and gaming jobs," Lord said. Average monthly employment in services employment has grown by over 72,000 jobs since 1991. Nearly 60 percent of these jobs are in sectors which are not related to gaming.

Food and beverage establishments are counted in the retail trade category. These jobs account for just 46 percent of the growth in retail trade.

"We are seeing strong growth in high-tech fields, such as telecommunications and health services, too," Lord said. "These jobs certainly spur wage growth."

In Mississippi, employers pay unemployment insurance taxes on the first $7,000 in wages to each employee. The taxes are deposited in the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund. Rates are determined by formula to maintain a safe balance. Each year, rates are recalculated and the agency's governing commission has the authority to make recommendations to the legislature for their adjustment.

Commission members are Jim Ingram of Tupelo, chairman, Miranda Beard of Laurel and Fred Price of Jackson.

Mississippi's employer tax rates are low compared to other states. The wage base of $7,000 is also the lowest allowed by law. For example, Louisiana's minimum rate is 0.3 percent on the first $7,700 in wages and the Arkansas minimum is 0.5 percent on the first $9,000.

The Mississippi Symphony Pops Orchestra and the Mississippi Chorus will present a pops concert entitled, "Good — It's Gershwin," at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 20. The concert, conducted by Colman Pearce, music director and principal conductor, will be in Thalia Mara (Jackson Municipal) Auditorium.

The concert, performed by 46 members of the symphony and chorus, will feature selected works by George Gershwin. Featured soloists will be Mississippians Kimberly Griffing-Porter, soprano, Robert Barefield, baritone, and Maestro Colman Pearce, piano.

The program will include Overture to "Girl Crazy," Lullaby for Strings; Wintergreen for President; Promenade; Second Rhapsody for Piano and Orchestra; and selections from "Porgy & Bess" (concert version), all by George Gershwin with words to "Porgy & Bess" by Ira Gershwin.

Griffing-Porter is a native Jacksonian. She received a bachelor of music degree from the University of Mississippi and a master of music degree from Boston University.

While in the Boston area, she performed extensively with area orchestras. She was contracted as a soloist in New York City's Carnegie Hall. She then toured the Middle East and South Africa.

Since returning home to Mississippi, Griffing-Porter has performed with the Mississippi Opera, and she is the coordinator for the Mississippi Opera Studio. She recently has returned from a tour of Europe and the Middle East, where she appeared as a principal soloist at the Jerash International Festival in Jordan. This Pops concert will mark her debut with the Mississippi Symphony Orchestra.

Barefield is a frequent performer in opera, oratorio and recital. Recent operatic performances have included "Figaro" in The Barber of Seville; "Dancario" and "Morales" in Carmen; and "Sid" in Albert Herring.

In 1995, Barefield was a national prize winner in the National Federation of Music Club Young Artist Competition. He has also been a prize winner in the Shreveport Opera "Singer of the Year" competition and the Friedrich Schorr Memorial Performance Prize in Voice.

Dr. Barefield is currently assistant professor of music at the University of Mississippi, where he teaches studio voice and diction.

The Mississippi Chorus is a non-profit organization of singers from around the Jackson metro-area, whose purpose is the promotion of the musical arts through the medium of choral music, as well as to increase the general appreciation of all the arts through greater community involvement.

The chorus is a non-denominational choir open to anyone. Organized in 1989, the chorus has performed major choral works by 18th, 19th and 20th century composers.

Martin Bittick, founder and director of the Mississippi Chorus, is also the president of the Prudential Bittick Realty. He has a vast background in choral music, holds two music education degrees from Louisiana State University, and has completed all course work toward his PhD from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Bittick has taught on all levels of music, from public schools to college, and has served as a music director in churches for more than 30 years. The Mississippi Chorus is the third community choir Bittick has organized. He has taken several choral groups on tour through Europe.

Tickets are available through the Mississippi Symphony Orchestra offices, located in the Arts Center, 201 East Pascagoula Street.

Individual concert tickets range from $14 to $22 per seat for adults or $12 to $18 per seat for students and senior citizens. For reservations, call 1-800-898-5050 within Mississippi.

'Tommy' scheduled at Saenger Theatre

Tickets are on sale at all TicketMaster locations and the Saenger Theatre box office for the national tour of the classic rock opera 'The Who's Tommy,' beginning Jan. 30 through Feb. 4 as a presentation of the 1995-96 Saenger Broadway series. Tommy, with music and lyrics by Pete Townshend, and book by Townshend and Tony Award-winning director Des McAnuff, has been hailed by the critics as a "theatrical phenomenon," (Variety).

Tommy, which opened on Broadway April 22, 1993, is the recipient of five Tony Awards for best score, best director, best choreography, best scenic design and best lighting, six Drama Desk Awards, three Outer Critics' Circle Awards and a 1994 Grammy Award for best musical show recording.

Hurting onto the stage with dramatically streaming lights, sets soaring through the air, breathtaking projections, robotic instruments and dozens of video screens, Tommy is one of the most technically sophisticated productions in Broadway history.

The Who first gave voice to Tommy in 1969 with its landmark concept album of the "rock opera." Tommy's amazing musical journey, which features such hits as "Amazing Journey," "See Me, Feel Me," "We're Not Going To Take It," and "Pinball Wizard," has since rocked across generations and all around the world. In addition to these timeless classics, the stage version features new material by Townshend, including a new ballad, "I Believe My Own Eyes."

Tommy is told visually and musically with virtually no dialogue. Set in Britain between the end of World War II and the late 60's (instead of the 20th century of the album), Tommy chronicles the adventures of young Tommy Walker. Following a traumatic experience in childhood, which causes him to withdraw from the world, Tommy emerges an unwilling hero — the Pinball Wizard — who must live up to the expectations of his demanding followers.

Writer/composer/musician Pete Townshend has been a member of The Who since 1963. At least 20 of his more than 300 recorded songs have been chart hits, and he has written and composed several major collections, including Tommy, that have won international recognition.

The national tour of Tommy is directed by Vicky Bussert, with set design by Tony Flanning, costume design by Tom Reiter, and lighting design by Norman Coates. The tour is produced by Big League Theatricals Inc.

Tickets are available at all TicketMaster locations and the Saenger Theatre box office. To charge by phone call 522-5555 or 1-800-488-5252. Tickets are priced from $24 to $36.50.

Performance times are Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m., Thursday at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., Friday at 8 p.m., Saturday at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

Favre to lead Packers against Dallas in conference title game

BY RICHARD MEEK

Green Bay's potential road to the Super Bowl the last two years has detoured in Dallas. In both cases, the Packers have dropped first round playoff games in Texas Stadium.

And the oddsmakers say the Pack's chances of reversing that trend are unlikely, installing Dallas as nine-point favorites. Even Green Bay quarterback Brett Favre said if he was one taken to betting, he would "probably" wager against Green Bay.

But according to the Packers, a more mature and experienced Green Bay team will square off Sunday against the Cowboys in the NFC championship game, scheduled for 3 p.m. and to be televised on Fox.

Packer wide receiver Anthony Morgan admitted that the team "was not focused" the last two years.

"We went on the field seeing all the flash and things on the sidelines, the fur coats and stuff," Morgan said. "We're so focused. We're confident in ourselves."

Morgan's optimism is not unfounded, as he has been one of the beneficiaries of Favre's magical season. Favre, a native of Hancock County, was named the NFL's MVP with 38 touchdown passes, third highest in league history.

After disposing of Atlanta in the first round of the playoffs, Favre guided the Packers to a stunning 27-17 NFC divisional playoff victory over San Francisco in 3Com Park last week. Behind Favre's two scoring tosses, and a fumble return for a touchdown, Green Bay jumped out to a shocking 21-0 lead.

"No one gave us a chance, and here we are going to the NFC championship," said Favre, a graduate of Hancock North Central High School.

Favre completed 21 of 28 passes for 299 yards and the two scores. He said he was "happy" with his performance, but quickly added, "we have two left."

But Green Bay may be facing its toughest obstacle in Dallas. The Cowboys have defeated the Pack in five of their last six games, including the two playoff meetings. Dallas pinned a 35-9 loss on the Pack a year ago, and a 27-17 loss in 1994. The Packers' last victory against Dallas came on Oct. 8, 1989.

The teams are meeting in an NFC title game for the first time since the famous "Ice Bowl" in 1967, when Bart Starr's quarterback sneak with 13 seconds remaining gave the Pack a 21-17 victory on frozen Lambeau Field.

"I'm sure everyone right now is thinking, 'Green Bay will go to Dallas and the same old thing is going to happen,'" Favre said. "But we've definitely put ourselves in a great position for people to say, 'Hey, maybe Green Bay is for real.'"

Although Favre is the catalyst for the Packers, their fortunes may depend on how well the defense shuts down Dallas running back Emmitt Smith, quarterback Troy Aikman and his talented group of receivers.

Brett Favre

San Francisco quarterback Steve Young threw for 328 yards last week, but that came on 65 attempts, and after the 49ers had abandoned the running game.

"I think our young secondary felt very good about what we did against San Francisco and Jerry Rice and Brent Jones and those people," Green Bay coach Mike Holmgren said.

The AFC title matchup pits upstart Indianapolis against Pittsburgh at Three Rivers Stadium. The Steelers are 11-point favorites to return to the Super Bowl for the first time since the Chuck Noll era.

Diamondhead krewe opens Carnival season

Krewe of Kamehameha holds ball

Diamondhead Boater's Krewe of Kamehameha presented its annual Coronation Ball on Saturday, Jan. 6, at the Broadwater Hotel.

King Akua Kai XXII, Jesse B. Morgan and his Queen, Kathy Wood (Mrs. Robert M.) were crowned by Harold Turner and Terry Downie (Mrs. Morton), King and Queen of the 1995 season.

Queen Kathy was elegantly attired in a royal blue gown featuring opulent jewels of rhinestones and beading.

Krewe members and special guests entered the Grand Ballroom beneath the bough of a Twelfth Night Tree bearing golden pears and highlighting a nesting partridge. Once inside the ballroom, the magic of Carnival signaled the end of the Christmas season. A throne dais draped in gold lame awaited the majesties. Tables adorned with ribbons of purple and gold and small baker dolls gave hints of happenings to come.

Following the Coronation ceremonies and a gourmet dinner, the Tableau was presented as the Chief Baker of the Kamehameha Galley, adorned in gold and lavender satin, stepped forward to give the 1996 King's Proclamation officially opening the Carnival Season with the presentation of the "King of Cakes" baked by his loyal cooks.

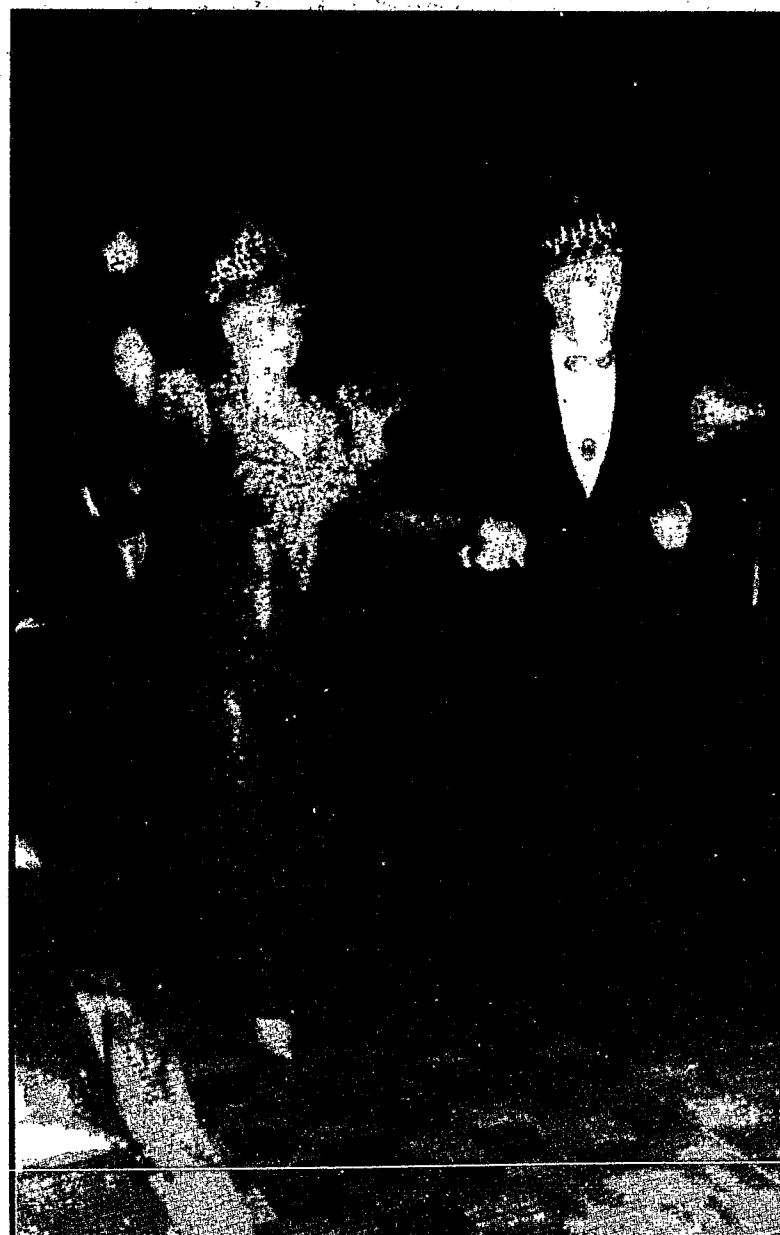

Masked and costumed in white satin bakers hats and aprons, the cooks danced in merriment, waving their cookware and singing, "We knew you were coming so we baked a cake."

With great fanfare six bakers entered the room carrying a platter holding a king cake to serve the 200 guests. Within the circle of the cake sat a huge crowned baby doll reaching out to all to let the fun begin, and not end until the stroke of midnight on Mardi Gras.

Toni Cumming (Mrs. W.R.) was the general chairman of the 1996 Coronation Ball.

Jesse Morgan is King Akua Kai XXII, and his Queen is Kathy Wood for the 1996 Carnival Season.

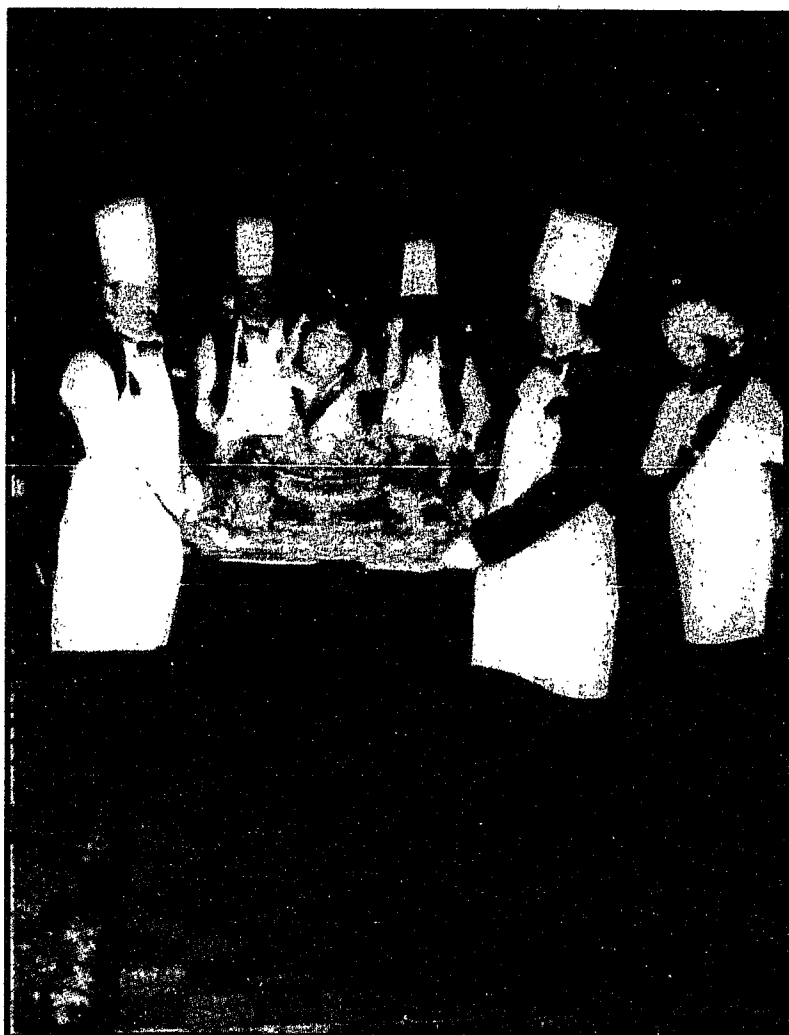

King and Queen for 1995 were Harold Turner and Terry Downie.

Many good laughs were shared at the Kings' table.

A toast between royalty of 1995 and 1996.

With great fanfare, six bakers presented a large king cake to serve 200 guests.

Krewe members merrily danced the night away at the Coronation Ball.

Masked bakers entertained the guests, singing "We knew you were coming, so we baked a cake".

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Andrea Naman

Hand-Naman

Marriage vows were exchanged December 2 by Andrea Renee Naman and Stephen James Hand in an evening ceremony at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. The Rev. Paul Zoghby performed the ceremony, assisted by the Revs. Msgr. Oliver Edward Adams, Charles Francis Aucoin, Louis Russell Bivens and James Francis Zoghby.

Soloists were Michael Zoghby and Laurin Zoghby.

Parents of the bride are Dr. and Mrs. Louis James Naman of Mobile. The bride's mother is the former Marsha Blaize. The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Lillian Blaize of Waveland and the late Edmond A. Blaize Sr.

Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Hand of Mobile.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of natural pure silk featuring a scalloped V neckline and Basque waist. Alencon lace embroidered with clear sequins and seed pearls accented the Renaissance sleeves and fitted bodice. The full skirt, with a scalloped Alencon lace border formed a semi-cathedral train, highlighted by beaded Alencon lace appliques. The head piece was fashioned of embroidered matching Alencon lace. The veil featured a scalloped edge with pearl love knots.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Regina Elizabeth Naman, maid of honor, and Mrs. Helen Naman Kamel of Memphis and Mrs. Marcia Naman Luckie. Also attending the bride were Mrs. Marcella Rathle Naman, sister-in-law of the bride, of Montgomery, Catherine Marie Naman, cousin of the bride, of Jasper, Ala., Cynthia Louise Elias, cousin of the bride, of Monroe, La., Marguerite Ann Naman, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Sally Robinson Pehler and Schettler Anne Watts, both of Mobile.

They were attired in formal opera-length navy-blue dresses with matching gloves.

Flower girl was Elizabeth Luckie, niece of the bride, of Mobile. She was attired in a long white dress trimmed in lace.

Ring bearers were Corbin Ashley Blaize, cousin of the bride of Waveland, and Thomas Gordon Johnson III, cousin of the groom.

Altar boys were Taylor Stephen LaFontaine, cousin of the bride, and J. Gaines Bethaze, cousin of the groom.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man and by his brothers, Joseph Henry Hand and Patrick O'Brien Hand, both of Mobile. Other groomsmen were Edmond George Naman, brother of the bride, of Montgomery, David Earl Homza of Tampa, Fla., Riley Scott Copeland, Martin Willard Andrews, Thomas Bernard Beale, all of Mobile, and Dr. David Stuart Gams.

Readers were Mrs. Elaine Blaize LaFontaine, aunt of the bride, of Bay St. Louis, and John Vincent O'Brien, uncle of the groom.

After a reception at the Athelstan Club, the couple left for a honeymoon in Keystone, Colo. They will reside in Mobile.

USDA to permit soybean planting

Franklin A. Gennin, CED of the Pearl River-Hancock County FAS-Office said Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard Rominger, announced that soybeans may be planted in 1996 on optional flexible acreage (OFA) as provided by subsection (b) of Section 504 of the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended.

The 1949 Act prohibits the planting of soybeans on optional flexible acreage if, on Jan. 1, 1996, the estimated price of 1996-crop soybeans is less than 105 percent of the loan rate, or $5.17 per bushel. Since soybean prices are projected to be greater than $5.17, soybeans may be planted on OFA.

BACKACHE.

The little pain that lasts and lasts.

Back pain often starts small. Sometimes it disappears; usually it returns; often it gets worse. If left untreated, back pain can linger for years as a nagging reminder that all is not well.

Your job may be the culprit; you may sit all day hunched over a desk; you may lift heavy objects; you may be constantly bending over, caring for children. These are common causes of misaligned vertebrae of the spine and may be good reasons why you have back pain.

And because the spine is a complex system which is connected to other areas of the body, misaligned vertebrae in the spine can also be the reason for tension, stiffness, fatigue and more specifically back pain and headaches.

Our doctors at HODA CHIROPRACTIC CLINICS are specialists in back care. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further complications. Make this the last morning your back is left untreated. See Dr. Desmond W. Hoda.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

Dear Lord,

I seek not for faith
that will move a mountain, but for faith
that will somehow move me.

Exercise your faith,
and attend worship services with your family.

Why advertise in ???

The Sea Coast Echo

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail-order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.
